From the editor:

Sydney Wooderson. (Born 30th August 1914, died 22nd December 2006)

He was without doubt Blackheath Harrier's greatest athlete and one of Britain's finest ever middle distance runners. In an active running career spanning nearly 20 years either side of the Second World War he was World Record Holder for the One Mile, three quarters mile, half mile and 800 metres. He also successfully moved up from 1500 metres to the 5000 metre event with success at European and International levels. As a club runner he was a distinguished track and cross country competitor notably winning titles such as the National championships in 1948 and the Club 10 mile championship the following year.

Much has been said about Sydney Wooderson already that it would indeed be difficult to know what else could be added. He was not merely a great runner of this club but a legend of all time. Both his portrait and photograph of his victory in an International march against France in 1938, hanging in the club house provide a constant reminder of someone whose spirit will always be inextricably intertwined with that of the club as if he were still living amongst us in the flesh. I can't claim to have known him and only met him once in 1994 at his 80th birthday celebration, but on that occasion he left a lasting impression with me and no doubt others too. Sydney Wooderson was more than just an athlete, he was a full rounded personality, with great humanity and humility. In paying tribute to him

Tony Weeks-Pearson (Past President 1990-91 made reference to him as an 'all rounder.... A human being, the Man within '. He was a great reader of literature, especially plays and would before going to the theatre read a play in advance and this mention of the theatre puts one in mind of truly great actors (such as Olivier and Richardson) who, despite reaching great eminence in their vocation could also display real humility and awareness. To their admirers they were more than great performers but paragons raised to a superhuman level. Sydney Wooderson might well be described (like Olivier) as a performer who not merely won awards but had awards and ultimately places named after him. He achieved many great feats, and set notable records in his career, but above all he possessed in abundance those qualities that make a great human being namely humanity and modesty. Whatever he will be remembered for it is sure that this will long stand the test of time when records and times have come and gone.

A career of athletic achievement.

Even in his formative years Wooderson was attaining distinction on the track and cross country as a public schoolboy and Kent Junior. In 1932 at 18 he won his first title at Dartford over the country and in the same year he became the first British schoolboy to break 4min 30sec for the mile. In these early years he in fact shared honours with his brother Stanley who at this time was also an athlete of great promise. On the 28th April 1933 he won the English Public Schools Championship title easily and on the following day became the first schoolboy to break 4hours 30 seconds for the mile. Entering the senior level he took the athletics world by storm and for the remainder of that decade compiled an impressive array of honours. In 1935 he won his first AAAs title at the White City Stadium in a time of 4'17.2). He was to win this title five times in consecutive years up to the outbreak of war in 1939, his best time of 4.11.08 achieved on his fifth triumph that year. At international level he gained a silver medal at the Empire Games Final, finishing behind his rival Jack Lovelock the New Zealander against whom he would be measured over several years. However in 1936 at the the summer Olympics in Berlin, he suffered an ankle injury which had been sustained from a broken bone, and failed to qualify for the final. But, in 1937, after surgery, his performance increased and culminated in his world mile record of 1937 when at Motspur Park in an event set up as a handicap Wooderson came from behind in the final lap to overhaul the opposition and set the record at 4'6.4. Also in 1938, he set world records in the 800m and 880 yards with times of 1min 48.4sec and 1min 49.2sec respectively. Despite missing the 1938 Empire Games for study purposes he claimed the European 1500m title in Paris in a time of 3'53.6.

The war came with Sydney at the peak of his career but he continued to run especially for allied causes such as the "Aid to Russia" fund in 1944. Immediately after the war, however, in 1945, he ran his fastest mile, 4min 4.2sec, just behind Arne Andersson of Sweden. In Oslo at the 1946 European Championships, when he won the 5,000m in 14min 8.6sec, the second-fastest time to that point. The titles continued to be won and also in 1946 came the AAAs 3 miles championship but soon afterwards he retired from the track to concentrate on cross country.

His versatility was demonstrated when he won the National cross-country title in 1948 over a punishing 9 mile course in Sheffield. He would win races again at club level but by 1952 his active running career was over. He devoted much time to the administration of Blackheath Harriers and was twice the club president, in 1946 and in the centenary year of 1969. After having seemingly been overlooked for official orders he was finally awarded the MBE for services to athletics.

In summary his career achievement on track and cross country was: Public Schools 1 mile Champion 1933; AAAs 1 mile Champion. 5x 1934-39; Southern Counties champion 1936; AAAs 3 miles Champion 1946; National Cross Country Champion 1948; European 1500m Champion 1938; European 500m Champion 1946; Silver medal Empire Games 1 mile 1934; World Record Holder 1 mile 1937, 800m and 880 yards 1938.

Perhaps he might have achieved even greater things had it not been for world war and five years lost to that war when he was at the peak of his athletic prowess. Maybe he might have been the first man to run a sub four minute mile. In answering this question in 1995 he was to reply "No, I don't really think so, I think it's a matter of progression", and if anyone thought he might regret being surpassed by Andersson and Haegg ... and Bannister? he would also add "You hand the torch, so to speak, onto someone else."

Tributes

To me he was the perfect athlete. The most telling comment he made came when I asked him if he regretted not being an athlete today, as his performances would have made him very rich. Without hesitation he responded that he loved his time in the sport; it was a hobby, relaxation and highly enjoyable. Today, he commented, he would be a full-time athlete; it would be his job and he would have to get out of bed in the morning and run as work. He would have lost much of the fun. No, he regretted nothing.

We will never see his like again. The era of the dedicated amateur is long past. He may have died but he has been a legend for so long that it seems he has not, and never will, leave us. Anybody who met him will have fond memories of a great, great man.

Dr Greg Moon, London NW5

He was an all-rounder, and now I do not mean in the sporting sense, but as a Human Being, the Man within. This is the image we shall hold, ever more vividly, in our minds...I found him a free tough mind, forthright...independent and progressive in his views and judgement...he helped hosts of us with his professional skills, his friendship and warmth...For himself, did he not wear his fame lightly...?

Tony Weeks-Pearson, Wareham

Merit for honours is defined as achievement and exceptional sacrifice...They should be awarded because the individual has gone the extra mile in the contribution they have made. Sydney Wooderson was an example of someone who fell through the net and had to wait until 2000 for an MBE.

Sports Minister Kate Hoey

He was always a gallant fighter, and I admired him as much for his attitude to running as for the feats he achieved. He was a methodical and unassuming athlete who gave up his time and energy to encourage youngsters even if they showed no promise. He believed that running was a worthwhile sport in itself, even if one could not achieve any great success.

Sir Roger Bannister.

Though Sydney Wooderson competed as an amateur in the days long before track and field athletics could offer a professional way of life as an impetus to ever-rising standards, he must now be regarded as one of the most outstanding and versatile British runners.

The Times Obituaries column Dec 23 2006.

Every time Wooderson stepped on or off the track, his exploits were noted by an ever-growing band of newspaper men, hanging on his every word
